Well Sense Health Plan Donated $8,350 to Lil' Iguana's Children's Safety Foundation

Funds supported the purchase of a new trailer

Manchester, NH – Well Sense Health Plan has donated $8,350 to the Lil' Iguana's Children's Safety Foundation, a non-profit organization that educates children ages two through nine about the dangers of abduction, sexual abuse, child predators and serious accidental injuries. The funds allowed Lil' Iguana's to purchase a new trailer to transport supplies to their live stage shows and in-classroom programs at local elementary schools, early learning centers and Head Start sites.

Caitlin Howard, Community Outreach Supervisor at Well Sense, explained that the donation is part of Well Sense's ongoing partnership with Lil' Iguana's that began in January 2014. "After attending several events with Lil' Iguana's, we noticed their current trailer was over 16 years old and was too small to house their materials," said Howard. "The new trailer provides ample space and will aid Lil' Iguana's in their mission to promote children's safety as the organization continues to grow."

Lil' Iguana's award-winning programs utilize interactive music-based lessons in order to keep young children engaged while learning important safety information. To learn more about Lil' Iguana's available programming, visit their website at www.liliguanausa.org or call (603)881-9805.

Well Sense Health Plan is the largest and only not-for-profit managed care organization serving the healthcare needs of New Hampshire's Medicaid recipients. For more information, visit wellsense.org.
